MEET Heather

Hello! My name is Heather, and I have arrived at this journey through my lifelong desire to build a family. I have felt a strong pull toward adoption in this future boundless blessing of becoming a mom. My friends and family are the best community and biggest influences.

They bring joy to my life, and will also surround a future child with so much love, care, and fun.

Welcoming a child in my home will include lots of adventure, laughter, celebration, and most importantly a reminder of the immense love that is always around.

Living just minutes away from family allows for the kind of close connection I deeply cherish.

I love my role in elementary education! It's a delight to connect with students, families, and the community every day. The best part is seeing the smiles and enthusiasm of our students.

Oliver

Oliver is an energetic 13-year-old yorkie-poo with lots of personality. He loves going on walks, riding in the car, and taking naps on the deck. When he's not running and playing in the backyard, Oliver has been known to steal socks from the laundry basket!

HOME sweet HOME

I purchased my home in 2019 and have spent the years making it a cozy place that is warm and inviting. My home has two bedrooms, and with over a half-acre there is plenty of space to swim, play, and enjoy the outdoors. I am a short distance from multiple walking trails, playgrounds, and a community recreation center.

FAMILY and FRIENDS

The relationships with my family and friends are something that I value. Lifelong friendships are my foundation, built on years of shared experiences since high school and college. I'm a proud Cleveland sports fan, love going to a great musical at Playhouse Square, and also enjoy cooking classes. Of course, I also appreciate the simple joys of a relaxing movie night or reading a good book by the pool. Traveling is something that has brought my family closer, and allowed for many shared memories. From cruising and short getaways to places in Ohio, exploring is always something enjoyed and I am eager to share with a future child.

Traditions

Tradition is a cornerstone of my life, shaping how I value togetherness and creating lasting memories. I love to host annual events like Memorial Day and 4th of July pool parties, and bringing gals together for a Galentine's Day event in February. Every December, I craft unique Christmas sweaters and they are shared with lots of love. My love for traditions and shared, memorable experiences branch from my family's Sunday lunches. Every week, at noon on Sunday, we meet for a meal. This weekly shared meal started at my grandma and grandpa's house and has brought countless memories, and the unbreakable family bond that will forever shape my future. Every year, since as long as I can remember, my family hosts an (highly competitive!) Easter Egg Hunt. These traditions reflect my intentionality in connection and my appreciation for both big and small moments of togetherness. I eagerly look forward to sharing and building upon with my family.

Loving Commitment

I promise to give your child every opportunity to grow into a happy and successful person. They will be raised in a home full of love, laughter, adventure, support, and will always be told how much you love them. You will forever have a very special place in our family's shared story, and a seat at our table for lunch on Sunday.

With Love,
Heather
